Description:

Martelli cooked hams are produced in the province of Padua, Italy, in a facility equipped with cutting edge technology. Here fresh whole legs of pork are first salted in brine and prepared only with natural aromas then slowly massaged at length to allow the flavours to penetrate. Then hams are then placed in a vacuum pack, inserted into a mould and cooked in steam ovens for over 24 hours. The cooking process is very slow so that the meat retains all its organoleptic properties. The cooling process, on the other hand, is very quick to keep the product sterile. Finally the hams are packed and pasteurized again in a sterile environment. The pork meat used for the Martelli prosciutto cotto all come from selected pig farms in Italy that feed their stock only natural ingredients like barley and whey that comes from the nearby Parmigiano Reggiano DOP and Grana Padano DOP production farms or from selected breeders in Northern Europe. The Martelli Prosciutto cotto is gluten free, lactose free, soy free, starch free, polyphosphate free and contains no GMO.
